SUPERVISOR ROYER

Royer to Seek Ryan Seat in Congress; Papan Eyes Support

By RICK SULLIVAN

San Mateo County Supervisor William Royer declared his candidacy Monday for election to the 11th District Congressional seat vacated by the death of Leo J. Ryan.

Royer, a Republican, is the first to leap into what he called a "free for all" election that is expected to draw at least a half dozen candidates hoping to replace the slain congressman.

"The mood of the electorate is ripe for legislative accomplishment," Royer stated at a press conference.

"Never before have the voters in this county said so clearly that they want less government, less interference in their personal lives and above all lower taxes.

"An examination of my voting record and my philosophy since I have been in public office clearly substantiates that I have worked continuously toward these goals."

A six-year member of the Board of Supervisors, the 58-year-old Royer is considered politically solid in local Republican circles. He served as a Redwood City planning commissioner for two years and a Redwood City councilman for 16 years.

Recognizing that a central issue of the forthcoming special election campaign will be tax reform, Royer commented, "Since 1972 (when he was elected supervisor), I have supported every measure designed to limit property taxes and have been a consistent advocate of spending limitations at all levels of government. I have always advocated strict limits on government interference and followed a consistent path of fiscal conservatism."

The supervisor downplayed the label of "classic conservative" pinned to him last week by the county Republican Central Committee.

He freely acknowledged that he is "fiscally conservative," but he added, "I have always supported taking care of people who need help."

Royer claimed that he played a key role as a member of the County Supervisors Association of California in developing legislation implementing Proposition 13.

The Republican National Committee had urged the supervisor from Redwood City to challenge Ryan this year at the June primary, but Royer refused.

He said today he believes the time now is right to run and he expressed little doubt he can raise the necessary funds from supporters "who will come forward to help me with my campaign."

Royer said his family including his wife and two sons, support him in his bid for a congressional seat.

In his tenure as a supervisor, Royer noted that he has been instrumental in establishing a countywide transit district; retaining a private firm to manage Chope Community Hospital saving the county $1 million last year; consolidating the central and southern municipal courts resulting in tax savings; reorganizing county government making it more efficient; and planning for a North County pre-arraignment and detention facility.

MAYOR GEORGE MOSCONE

S.F. Slayings Stun Leaders In SM County

San Francisco Mayor George Moscone's "main characteristic was one of compassion for the less fortunate," San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Thomas M. Jenkins said when informed of Moscone's death.

Jenkins, a partner in a large San Francisco law firm before his appointment 2½ years ago, said that his firm hired Moscone to work for them from the late '60s until Moscone became mayor.

"He was an excellent lawyer — a lawyer's lawyer," Jenkins said, fighting back his emotions. "The State Bar considered him one who understood the law."

Jenkins, who said he knew Moscone for 15 years, termed the mayor as "a man strongly interested in his family. He was extremely proud of his wife and children."

Jenkins also called Moscone "extremely articulate and capable in the legislative process."

Moscone was a speaker at Jenkins' inauguration.

Edward Bacciocco, chairman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, was equally stunned and distraught over news of the death of the San Francisco mayor.

Bacciocco said he had known the Moscones for more than 15 years. Both had been involved in charitable affairs involving Italians.

Noting that the public is still reeling emotionally over the massive deaths in Guyana, Bacciocco commented, "Successive tragedies of this magnitude numb the brain and stun one's feeling so that the greatest tragedy of all is that we don't fully realize the significance of each death.

"This is a coward's game that is being played," the board chairman said, referring to the reported arrest of former San Francisco Supervisor Dan White, a suspect in the slayings of both Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk.

"What some people have lost is the ability to absorb a personal disappointment without ... killing someone."

It was announced Monday that Moscone had not planned to reappoint White to the Board of Supervisors.

White had resigned from the board citing financial reasons and then later changed his mind.

Supervisor John Ward was attending a meeting on the San Francisco International Airport Land Use study when news of Moscone's death became known.

Ward said the meeting at the Foster City Recreation Center had just adjourned when Redwood City Councilman Robert Norris whispered to him that Moscone and Supervisor Milk had just been shot dead.

"I'm absolutely stunned," said the supervisor, choking back his feelings. "This coming on the heels of the Rep. Leo Ryan and Guyana tragedy is just too much to cope with."

Ward praised the slain mayor for his attention to concerns for neighboring San Mateo County and especially for his understanding of the noise impact of the airport on North County cities.

Daly City Council Takes Its Lumps

Citizens took advantage of a short Daly City City Council agenda Monday night to blast the council about garbage service and profits, the Community Service Center, enforcement of litter laws, road resurfacing and animal control.

The intense grilling by the same individuals who address the council every week finally caused Mayor William Schumacher to abandon his usual gracious manner for a moment during an exchange with Ernest Pezzola of the Original Daly City Protective Association.

Pezzola, who earlier had mentioned the idea of recalling council members who do not answer to their constituents, was making his fourth complaint of the evening when Schumacher snapped, "That is enough."

Pezzola responded, "This is a public meeting."

Schumacher said, "Well, Mr. Pezzola, there may be more to the public than just you."

Pezzola sat down soon after that exchange. He had protested earlier that the council never seems to listen when citizens talk.

"It seems like we're talking to a wall. Your minds are made up," he had said, accusing the council of making decisions in private and of blindly following the recommendations of the city staff.

Schumacher had replied that most of the items of the meeting agenda weren't controversial and that others had been discussed previously many times.

Pezzola and another organizer of the ODCPA, Conrad Pavellas, were particularly critical of the council's authorization of an agreement with San Mateo County under which the county and the city each allocate $30,000 to the Daly City Community Service Center.

Schumacher defended the center, which coordinates social service programs in the city, as having received the highest recommendation of any such agency in a recent study by the county.

City Manager David Rowe said the city paid $110,00 to $120,000 to fund the center last year, compared to $30,000 for 1977-78, and that the staff has been reduced from seven to five employees.

But Pezzola noted that the center no longer issues food stamps and "it's just a referral service." He said citizens could find the same information by using their telephone books.

Pavellas suggested that the council and county officials are covering up for the center's poor performance, which he said is apparent to anyone who reads the organization's 1977 annual report.

"It's handy for a city council to have a group of minorities they can play like an organ," Pavellas remarked.

He said the situation probably wouldn't have occurred if Daly City had a full-time mayor.

"I get tired of complaining, too. We wouldn't have all of this to complain about if we had someone at the top who was responsive to the people," Pavellas said.

Pezzola also protested the city's failure to enforce ordinances requiring residents to keep lids on their garbage cans and forbidding them to park their cars on sidewalks.

Harold Calder said he believes the public is being misled by the city's declaration that the road being built over the old dump site at Mussel Rock is to provide access to the coast for fishing, since anyone wishing to go fishing would have to walk a half-mile from the road to the water.

Calder suggested that the road is for the benefit of the Daly City Scavenger Co., which is building a garbage transfer station on the site.

But City Manager Rowe said no new road would be necessary for the transfer station and that it is being built to provide access to a public park in the area, according to terms laid out by the Water Quality Control Board and the Coastal Zone Commission.

Calder also asked the council to look into the scavenger company's practice of leaving garbage cans near the street, instead of returning them to homeowners' backyards.

Rowe said the city's contract with the company calls for curbside pickup only.

"That's not realistic," Calder responded, saying that many residents are unable to retrieve their cans before youngsters damage them.

Upon Calder's questioning, Rowe said it is true that the scavenger

Decision By Papan Next Week

State Asemblyman Louis Papan, D-Daly City, announced through a press spokeman that the lawmaker is seriously considering candidacy for the 11th Congressional District Seat vacated by the death of Leo Ryan.

Richard Silver, Papan's administrative assistant, said support for the three-term assemblyman is "overwhelming," and if it continues Papan will announce his candidacy during the week of Dec. 11.

"Mr. Papan is leaning toward running for the congressional seat, but will make no final decision until he has had the opportunity to talk to both local and state party officials and local elected officials," said Silver.

"Papan also wants to get a reading from his past political supporters. Thus far the pledges of support he has been receiving is overwhelming and if it continues he can be expected to announce ...," Silver added.

36 Dune Condos Approved

The Pacifica City Council gave the go-ahead Monday for developer Jack Lowe to build 36 controversial condominiums on the sand dunes in Pacific Manor.

This approval came in spite of many neighbors' objections that it would block ocean views in the area and that residents would be prevented from using the dunes for recreational purposes.

Another concern raised by residents and a local geologist was that the dunes are unsafe to build on because of the earthquake hazard.

However, after lengthy discussion on the subject, including a report by a Stanford engineer on the stability of the dunes, the council approved the project.

Lowe originally had proposed to build 43 condominiums and a recreation hall on the sand dunes. He called the project The Cliffs.

After the Pacifica Planning Commission objected to the density of the project, the number of units was reduced to 39.

When the planning commission rejected the project for a second time, Lowe told the city council the project would be reduced to 36 units and the setback from the ocean bluffs would be increased to a minimum of 100 feet.

He has said the homes will sell for about $125,000.

Much of the debate Monday centered on the stability of the dunes and the presence of landslides in the area.

John Galehouse, a geology professor at San Francisco State University, said the site is geologically unstable and is too close to the San Andreas Fault.

He said it is not a question of if an earthquake will destroy the area but when one would.

"How much of a risk are you willing to take with other people's lives?" he asked.

Wayne Clough, a Stanford professor, disputed Galehouse's findings.

Building on the dunes at 4000 Palmetto Ave. is "somewhat" more of a risk than building on other Pacifica sites, he said, but the homes can be designed to withstand shaking.

Asked if he would move his family there, Clough said, "Yes, I would."

An equal number of residents who were opposed to or supported the project spoke.

Residents who supported the project said it would enhance the area and that private landowners have a right to build on their property.

John Preston said that it "is a fact of life" that people's views get blocked.

He said residents complaining about the project must remember that when their homes were built, those, too, probably affected someone's view.

Speaking in favor of The Cliffs were several residents and a handful of representatives from the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce.

Most of those who spoke against the project live in the Pacific Point condominiums, which overlook the site.

Robert Sauter said residents were not necessarily concerned that the view from their own homes would be blocked, but that the view from the street level looking out toward the ocean also would be taken away.

Other concerns of residents opposed to The Cliffs were that the homes would add to the traffic congestion in the area and that the project is too dense.

The council members noted that they are in the difficult position of being laymen having to evaluate the testimony of geological experts.

Councilman Fred Howard said he believes that the possible instability of the dunes can be mitigated by constructing the condominiums to withstand high levels of shaking.

He said the development would "enhance" Pacifica.

Councilwoman Ellie McGuire said the threat of earthquakes is something Californians must live with.

Approval was given 4-1, with Councilman Mark Savage saying he would support the project if it were to be constructed anywhere else in Pacifica.

He said he was not convinced the homes were being built in a safe location.

Park Plan Approved By Council

Maps and charts were rolled out and city officials stood ready, but Daly City City Council members had no qualms Monday night about approving the conceptual plan for Hillside Park.

A total of $884,175 in federal, state and city funds has been allocated for the 7-acre park during the past three years. Land acquisition, still underway, is expected to cost $454,833.

According to Fred DeJarlais, Housing and Community Development Act coordinator for the city, that leaves sufficient funds to add most of the physical improvements to the park that are envisioned by the Hillside Park Planning Committee.

The committee wants the park to include two tennis courts, a multipurpose court, two bocci ball courts, a tot lot, 40 parking spaces and open playing fields.

Future plans call for a parcourse, a building with a capacity of 150 persons, garden fencing, 16 picnic tables, a terraced pool and barbecues.

Both the Parks and Recreation Commission and the Hillside Homeowners Improvement Association support the conceptual plan.

Weekend Flea Markets OKd

Treasure seekers and sellers will find Daly City more alluring when Snufy Enterprises starts a flea market at the Geneva Drive-In theater at 607 Carter St.

The Daly City City Council approved a use permit and negative environmental impact declaration for the flea market Monday night. Hours of operation will be 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays only.

Representing the applicant, Jack Haigh said Snufy will hire police to help direct traffic since the busy Cow Palace is nearby.

The council also approved a negative declaration and granted a variance for a bicycle store to be located at 100 Olivos Ave., after ascertaining that the store will deal only with non-motorized bikes.

In a separate action, the council passed a resolution asking the county for $5,000 for installing 20 bicycle racks in the city. The money will be drawn from a county transportation fund.

In other business:

• The council enacted parking restrictions that will allow street sweeping on School Street from Mission Street to Junipero Serra Boulevard.

• A single bid for some costly improvements to Mission Street did not satisfy council members, who asked the staff to find out why other bids were not made.

• The council continued action on zone changes requested by three different developers. One wants to build condominiums at the northeast intersection of Hyde Court and King Drive, another wants permission for a multiple family unit at 33 Vale St.

Funds Asked for Detention Facility

San Mateo County Supervisor William Royer recommended to his colleagues Tuesday that $10,000 be spent to plan and design a permanent pre-arrangement and detention facility in the North County.

A jail in the North County, demanded for year by city councilmen and police chiefs, will be built according to Royer, on a vacant parcel next to the county courthouse in South San Francisco.

The soonest construction would begin, said Royer, is 1980.

It will take at the least a year to arrange funding to finance construction of the facility, County Manager David Nichols said he is hopeful the county will qualify for some federal funds.

The $10,000 if appropriated by the Board of Supervisors, will be used, Royer said, as "seed money" to determine how large a holding facility should be built.

In other business Tuesday the supervisors:

• Considered application for a grant to fund a study to recue the infant mortality rate in East Palo Alto.

• Discussed a report on expenditure of special parks and open space funds.

Battle Over Doughnuts by S.B. Council

San Bruno City Councilman Doug Dawkins Monday night lost the battle of the doughnuts.

Doughnuts, a seemingly minor matter when one considers the type of business the San Bruno City Council is charged with handling, have become a major issue in the city more than once.

Several months ago, Mayor Dick Griffith objected to a private citizen bringing coffee and doughnuts to City Hall employees.

And Monday night, at the beginning of the regular council meeting, Dawkins, when discussing payment of warrants, objected to a $24.44 payment to Rolling Pin Donuts.

Dawkins said he didn't believe it was fair that police officers and trainees who work swing or graveyard shifts be allowed to purchase coffee and doughnuts with city funds. He said it was a privilege that one or two departments within the city enjoyed, but others did not.

"We're here to set policy," Dawkins said. "If one or two departments are going to have this privilege, then all departments should have it."

However, other members of the council, and City Manager Gerald D. Minford, disagreed.

"If they (the police officers) are working at night and protecting our lives, they are entitled to a few doughnuts. Twenty-five bucks is no big thing. Let them have their doughnuts," Councilman John Barnard said.

Added Minford: "That money is not for night coffee breaks. When officers have coffee and doughnuts at night, they pay for it themselves." Minford said the traditional purchase of doughnuts by City Hall employees is used to entertain out-of-town visitors and the like, or for a snack and refreshment at staff meetings.

"I don't believe it's inappropriate."

Other councilmen, although not vocalizing on the doughnut issue particularly, questioned Dawkins' desire to bring up the matter during a public meeting.

"We're nit-picking over stupid items," said Councilman Gary Mondfrans. "We're wasting time."

Added Councilman Tom Ricci: "If there's a question, a councilman should check with a staff member first (to try to find out the reasons for the expenditures). Let's not be questioning the warrants for a half hour."

The council eventually voted to approve the warrants — including the $24.44 check to Rolling Pin Donuts — 4-1, with Dawkins dissenting.

Dawkins also questioned city policy of allocating $200 to a retiring employee. He questioned whether the retiring employee receives the money in cash, or whether it goes toward a retirement dinner.

Minford said both methods have been utilized in the past, adding that the City Council has not had a formal policy, other than allocating the $200 for a retirement.

The city manager was asked to recommend a retirement gift policy to the council at its next meeting.

One suggestion, which will be considered by Minford, was made by Councilman Barnard, who said retiring employees with five years of service should be given $50; 10 years of service given $100; and 20 years $200.

Peninsula Likes It

Peninsula High School, the San Mateo Union High School District's continuation school, likes it in San Bruno and wants to stay, according to Principal Paul Baldwin.

Actually, Baldwin would like to see the school stay at its present location, Willard R. Engvall Intermediate School, which it moved into at the beginning of this school year. The school spent the previous two years at North Brae Elementary School, also in San Bruno.

In the 10 years that Baldwin has been Peninsula principal, the school has been in five different school facilities. And, Baldwin said, the board of trustees of the high school district only promised the school would be at the Engvall site for one year.

"Engvall is absolutely great," he said. "It's a beautiful site. Why, there's no comparison to North Brae at all. Here we have an open feeling. And do you know that for the first time we have playing fields."

It is costing the high school district $30,000 annually to house Peninsula High at the Engvall site, which was closed by the San Bruno Park School District last year because of declining enrollment.

And the uncertainty as to its future location was clouded because of the June passage of Proposition 13, which drastically cut the operating budget of the high school district.

"The board has told us that we will be here at Engvall for one year," Baldwin explained, "but what I'm really concerned about is that we would have to move next year, and then again the year after that, and then again the following year."

Baldwin said the constant moving has a tendency to misdirect the school's energy.

"We seem to be spending our energy on where we are going to be going, rather than on our programs," he said.

The principal also pointed out that with competency tests required of high school students, the learning process for the student at Peninsula High will be even more important this year.

"The continuation program as it now exists is even more necessary than ever before because of the competency tests. Some students, if they are not given proper attention, may not be able to slide by because of the competency tests."

There are about 165 ninth- through 12th-grade students at Peninsula. In addition, there is a program for school-age mothers and a child care center.

Baldwin and the district board realizes that it is mandatory for districts to have a continuation high school program, "and I don't think there's ever been any thought to breaking up the program."

What could happen, however, is that the program would be moved into vacant classrooms at existing schools. But that would jeopardize some special state funds that the school could be entitled to because it is termed a "necessary small high school."

Baldwin said another good point in favor of the Engvall site is that it is in a canyon and not in the midst of a residential area. He said when there is talk of moving the high school to a particular residential area, neighbors often complain.

"But we never get any complaints after we move in," he added.

Realizing that the $30,000 annual cost for Engvall is a considerable amount of money, groups of parents and booster clubs will hold some fund-raising events to try to absorb a part of the cost.

"We have a great parents' group," Baldwin said. "They say this is a good spot for us, and that they want us to stay here at Engvall. One of the things they'll be doing is giving us a higher profile so more people will know about us."

And, said school board Trustee Eugene May, who attended a recent meeting of Peninsula High School parents, "The feeling of the parents and the kids at Peninsula High School on what the school has done for them is just terrific.

"Why, if any of our other schools had a representation (like the recent Peninsula parents' meeting), we couldn't hold them all."

firm could begin withdrawing profits from the company Dec. 31.

"It is my intention to ask the council to extend the previous agreement," he added.

In effect. Rowe did not mention a figure.

Another resident, Susie Sanders, took the council to task for what she termed "the crudest work I've ever seen" on streets in the original Daly City neighborhood.

She complained that the company making the repairs left debris, knocked chunks out of curbs by mistake, did poor work that will create flooding and forgot completely about repairing some streets.

Rowe assured her that the city will not accept the job from the contractor until the problems are corrected.

In addition, Mrs. Sanders asked the city to do something about vehicles abandoned on streets and an overabundance of dogs running loose.

Mayor Schumacher said the city would check the vehicles on her street and he expressed hope that an animal control ordinance enacted by the council that night would help alleviate the dog problem.

New Signal Is Working

In February the Daly City City Council authorized the installation of traffic signals at the intersection of Hickey and Gellert boulevards. Construction work has been completed and the signals are operating to handle the heavy volume of vehicles travelling through this major intersection.

The Controller Assemblies for the traffic signal were purchased from Honeywell through Traconex, distributors in Santa Clara; and construction work was undertaken by C.V.R., Inc., general construction contractors. The city's Public Works Department designed and supervised the installation; and the Street Division staff painted the road markings, erected the traffic signs and placed the "Bots Dots" lane markings — altogether, a cooperative effort.

Cost of the traffic signal equipment and the construction for this traffic signal is approximately $60,000, with the source of funds being derived from gas tax monies and assessments on three new housing developments now underway in the Serramonte area — Cypress Point, Monte Vista and Serramonte Highlands.

There are several features about the installation of the Hickey-Gellert installation which are unique and are intended to provide the maximum traffic service to the travelling public. The Controller Unit operating the signals is a "Type 190 Microprocessor" and is the latest piece of electronic equipment on the market.

Vehicles on the four approaches to the intersection trip the detector loop cables buried in the pavement, thus actuating a call for a green light.

If there are no vehicles in a specific lane, the unit will skip that phase and allocate the green time on a demand basis to vehicles in other lanes.

Also, a "Fire-Emption" unit is contained in the Controller Assembly so that when a button is pushed at the Fire Station at Gellert and Wembly, the controller unit almost immediately gives the green light for Gellert Boulevard northbound traffic and a red light for all other approaches.

It allows 20 seconds for the fire trucks to pass through the intersection before returning to the regular phases. Pedestrian buttons, handicapped ramps, and protected walkways have been provided at this intersection.

Because of the heavy traffic from the Serramonte shopping centers to the freeway (I-280) provision has also been made for a separate green phase to accommodate this movement.

Vehicles southbound on Gellert Boulevard and turning left to the freeway can now proceed in two lanes with the median lane being for left or U-turns, and the next lane for left or through traffic. Four lanes have been maked on each of the approaches.

Right turns are particularly heavy and have been given a "Free Right Turn" lane in all directions.

The City Council also has authorized improvements at three other intersections, John Daly Blvd. and Dorchester; Bayshore and Geneva and Washington and Junipero Serra. It is expected that work on these signals will be completed within the next two or three weeks.

SAFETY REIGNS

Milton Bradley, The Man Himself

Millions of Americans associate the name Milton Bradley with excellence in games. The company that bears his name is one of the most successful game manufacturers in the country. But what about the man himself?

Milton Bradley was a 19th century American who not only had a tremendous influence on the games we play today, but on our modern education system as well.

Bradley came from a puritan background and was a descendant of ancestors that mistrusted pleasure. Thus, many of his early creative desires for play were not encouraged. But he was also the son of loving parents who were careful not to crush his inventive spirit.

In 1860 he produced the successful "Checkered Game of Life" which is still available today under the name "The Game of Life." The goal of the original game was to arrive at "Happy Old Age" without landing on squares representing "Idleness" or "Crime." The game has changed a bit with the times; today players compete to be the first to win a million dollars.

Bradley applied much of his inventiveness to the field of primary education and was one of the leading figures behind the development of kindergarten in the United States. Being an inventor of games, he had a natural interest in children. He saw a great weakness in primary grades, especially in the first year of schooling. In Bradley's day the rod was still the chief tool of education, causing children more misery than excitement about learning.

However, with the help of a few progressive minded individuals such as Elizabeth Peabody of Salem and Edward Wiebe of Springfield, Mass., Bradley set out to revolutionize early childhood education.

Chanukah Bazaar Set

Mrs. Hannah Greendorfer, president of Congregation B'nai Israel, and general chairperson of the event Mrs. Shirley Witham, announces that the annual Chanukah Bazaar will be held at the Synagogue's Temple House, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, on Dec. 3, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Renee Stehman, is in charge of the "Gift Shop" and "Boutique" booth, which will offer a wide variety of gifts for the holiday season, i.e., gift wrap papers, Jewish artifacts, hand-crocheted and knitted items, flower arrangements and jewelry — all available a modest prices.

There will be new and next to new merchandise available in another booth, as well as a white-elephant table.

A cake and "sweet table" will be among other booths, where one may purchase home-baked items for Holiday entertaining, at nominal prices. This booth will be chaired by Mrs. Leone R. Graubart and her daughter, Mrs. Sam (Arlene) Morris. "Potato Latkes" (potato pancakes), beverages, home-baked desserts, and other foods will be available at modest prices.

Assisting Mrs. Witham, over-all chairperson, are; Mary Fuhs, Gertrude Goldman, Hannah, Len and Lynn Greendorfer, Lynn Levine, Lorraine Lichtman, Debby Potak and Renee Stehman.

Proceeds derived through the Chanukah Bazaar will be used to benefit the General Fund of the Synagogue.

For more details call Sisterhood President Mrs. Hannah Greendorfer, 992-0968 or General Chairman Mrs. Shirley Witham, 756-8839.

Early Pregnancy Class at Hospital

Mary's Help Hospital will offer an Early Pregnancy class Dec. 9 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The class is for women prior to conception or for women who are in their first six months of pregnancy.

Husbands can attend.

The class will include instruction on emotional and physical changes during pregnancy, environmental and occupational hazards to the fetus, good nutrition, relaxation techniques, and exercises that relieve physical discomfort of normal pregnancy.

Pre-registration is required. A $15 fee will be charged for the class. March of Dimes scholarships are available. For more information call Mary's Help Hospital at 992-4000, Ext. 231.

Mary's Help Hospital is an acute-care 350-bed hospital sponsored and operated by the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul. It provides clinic services in Pacifica, South San Francisco and Daly City.

Holiday Books Topic

William Javier, manager of Serramonte Shopping Center's Dalton's Book Store, will present mini-reviews of books for holiday giving for The Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests on Dec. 7, 10 a.m., in the community room, Westlake Library.

The public can attend.

Javier has been manager of the local book store since May of this year, having been transferred from Dalton's store in Albuquerque, N.M. He started in this field about 10 years ago, doing shipping and receiving with Pickwick's chain of book stores, which was eventually bought by Dalton's.

The 12-year-old Dalton's firm, whose store in Serramonte Shopping Center has celebrated its 10th anniversary, is the No. 1 seller of hard-cover books on the national level. Every book in the store has an inventory number, and each sale of a book in each of Dalton's 345 stores is recorded into a central computer system, enabling the company to instantly spot trends.

Dalton's is a forerunner in this computer activity. Noting a trend, a scramble may ensue at busy times such as Christmas to keep popular books in stock. Much excitement is created, wondering which book will take off next.

It is one of the manager's roles to specially train all employes, who to start must be "book people."

In drawing from his experiences, Javier anticipates including in his mini-reviews, among others, the children's book "Faeries," published by Abrams, illustrated by Brian Froud, perhaps Britain's foremost children's illustrator.

Third Year Funds For Hillside Park

The state Department of Parks and Recreation recently approved the third year funding of Hillside Park in Daly City.

The state has notified Daly City that a block grant of $121,000 will supplement the city's matching fund of $40,000, to begin the Phase I development of Hillside Park in the spring of 1979.

Under Phase I, grading of the land, erosion control, a drainage system, landscaping and seeding of approximately four acres will be completed.

The total development of the park will occur as sufficient funds become available.

The majority of the funding comes from the state Department of Parks and Recreation and approximately 30 per cent will come from Daly City's HCDA block grant funds. The entire project is expected to cost approximately $1.5 million upon completion, which includes land acquisition.

The proposed Hillside Park plan has been approved by various civic and Daly City agencies. The Hillside Park committee is composed of recreation commissioners Anthony Aiello and Lowell Durham, who served along with other Hillside Park committee members Edward Quinteros Sr., George Vatari, Herold Moor and Frank Loretta.

In addition, the Hillside Homeowners Improvement Association, headed by president Clay Dodge, has been a key participant in creation of the Hillside Park plan.

A City Council study session was held Nov. 20 to review the proposed Hillside Park development plan.

Under Phase II, Hillside Park development proposal, there will be at least one tennis court, a fully equipped tot-lot, approximately 16 picnic tables, two barbeque pits, a multi-purpose court, two bocciball courts and a parking area.

Since the main area of the park will be on a split-level, the upper level will be designed as a picnic area with tables and barbeque pits, leaving the remaining portion of the park as open space and with the various facilities.

A former day-care center building, moved from Washington School, will serve as an "interim" community clubhouse. The clubhouse will have a tiny-tot program and a multi-purpose room.

As the necessary funds are appropriated the third phase of construction will commence. Phase III will consist of a permanent community building which can be used for wedding receptions, banquets,

Located in the front portion of the community building will be a garden court patio. Behind the community building will be a deck terrace lounge area overlooking the rest of the park.

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Peoples' Temple apparently organized a letter-writing campaign on its behalf from California officials after critical articles appeared in national and local publications last year.

Letters written by state political and community officials and excerpts of undated correspondence from national figures gave not the slightest clue of the tragedy that was to come in Jonestown, Guyana.

The Guyana Embassy Wednesday released copies of the letters and the excerpts as a follow-up to statements made by the Guyana Minister of State in defense of his government's permitting Jones to settle there.

Among the letter-writers whose references to the government of Guyana were dated on or about Aug. 2, 1977 — soon after damaging articles appeared in local papers and New West Magazine — were Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally, California Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, California Assemblymen Willie L. Brown Jr. and Art Agnos, San Francisco Public Schools Supervisor Margie Baker, San Francisco Lawyers Committee for Urban Affairs staff member Gilbert T. Graham, past president of the San Francisco Bar Association E. Robert Wallach and Carlton B. Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Association/Black Press of America.

The Guyana Embassy also released a document containing undated excerpts of praise from Vice President Mondale; Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.; U. S. Senators Warren Magnuson and Henry Jackson, Reps. Phillip Burton, D-San Francisco, Ronald V. Dellums, D-Berkeley, Don Edwards, D-San Jose, Don H. Clausen, R-Crescent City, and former Representative Bella Absug of New York.

Several of the senators' offices said they had no record of any correspondence with Jones, who led his congregation to mass suicide last weekend after the murders of five members of a congressional investigating group in Jonestown.

Typical of the comments was that of an aide to Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who said, "We went through our files for the past three years and we found nothing."

Gravel's press secretary guessed that the letter might have been a response to a constituent on some other matter and suggested that Jones may have made political contacts because of his political prominence in California, where his movement started in earnest.

Jones was involved in San Francisco politics as the leader of a church numbering 9,000 members and was appointed to the San Francisco Housing Authority by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone.

The New West article, after interviewing former Peoples' Temple members, charged the one-time missionary and former human rights leader with hoarding $5 million in property and cash and with beating members. He had already established his 27,000-acre Guyana settlement by then.

Defending Jones against the articles was Dymally, whose letter said the articles were "the cause of great concern and anguish among friends."

In his letter to the Guyana government on Aug. 3, Dymally said that "we are hoping that you will continue to give your support to the mission and again I wish to express my deep gratitude and admiration for your efforts in the Peoples' Temple's behalf."

Assemblyman Brown said Jones was "one of the most principled voices for social justice in the nation," according to the Guyana copy of his letter. "I am certain that you are aware of the character and integrity of the man, as are so many of us here in the U. S. who have come to know him."

McCarthy's letter said, "I enjoyed reading about the journey that the members of the People's Temple made. My congratulations to all the members of your congregation for setting a fine example for the rest of the nation in your dedication to humane ideals. I especially admire Pastor Jones for his ability to envision and lead these efforts . . ."

Congressman Edwards was listed among the undated excerpts with: "I only wish there were more like the people of Peoples' Temple Christian Church."

The White House also released an exchange of letters betwen Jones and First Lady Rosalynn Carter.

Nutrition Equals Good Dieting

By ELISE GENDAR

THE DIET CORNER

Have you heard about the world's most expensive diet?

It requires three times a day servings of butter and bakery rolls. In between meals you must have at least one package of snack food. This is rounded out by whipped cream on the desserts, plenty of extras like olives, mayonnaise, sour cream and roast beef.

The food budget for this diet is astronomical.

How can anyone lose weight on it? No one said it was a weight loss diet; just that it was an expensive diet, a costly diet. Yet people who wouldn't blink at paying for fattening foods will still fall back on the line that "dieting is too expensive."

They are so busy protesting about the expense they don't do the basic research that shows how inexpensive dieting can be. You don't have to buy high priced special diet foods. What you find on your grocer's shelves can be diet or non-diet, depending on the preparation.

But — even if diet food did cost you more, aren't you worth it? Would you hesitate for a moment to buy special food for your husband if his doctor prescribed it?

Think about that for a minute. Place some value on yourself and your needs. Now think about the cost of your foods. If you have thought you couldn't diet because of expense, have you changed your mind? Perhaps the question to ask yourself is can I afford not to diet?

Food can be important to a dieter, too. If fact dieters to a man and woman are food lovers. How do you think we all got that way? What we have learned to do is love the foods that love us back.

Good nutrition equals good food equals good dieting. And they can all add up to economy.

Strains of Christmas music will be heard wafting from the World War I veterans' ward at Menlo Park Veterans Hospital on Friday afternoon as the members of the Pacifica Fifty Plus Club tune up their vocal chords and do some caroling as a part of their annual holiday party for the veterans.

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, who plans and organizes outing for the Fifty Plusers, reports that the veterans always enjoy singalongs and party games on these festive occasions. In addition to their talents as singers and games players, the local seniors' club will be taking gift treats with them to the hospital.

Members of the Loyola Guild will have a tea and a program of choral music on Friday afternoon, according to Mrs. Fred Perata, guild publicity chairman.

The guild's advisory board will meet at 1 p.m. in room 308 with the membership together in the University Center lounge at the University of San Francisco campus. A general meeting with a program of music presented by the Girls' Choir from Mercy High School will begin at 1:45 p.m. The afternoon will conclude with the Christmas tea.

There will be no more meetings of the guild until after the start of the new year, Mrs. Perata indicated.

Charlie McCarthy, the local musical aggregation, will provide the music for dancing at the annual Mary's Help Hospital Guild Christmas party this Saturday evening.

Mrs. C. D. Hillsman and Mrs. C. J. Dunow, the co-chairpersons of the cocktail party, will continue to accept requests for tickets through tomorrow (Thursday). Tickets are $5 per person and checks should be made to the guild.

The party will be held in the Franciscan Mobile Park Country Club.

Graduates of the University of San Francisco School of Nursing who plan to attend the Christmas party being sponsored by the university's Nursing Society, are urged to call the alumni office immediately for information and reservations.

The society will observe the holiday season on Tuesday with a party to be held in a local private home.

Members of the Balboa Alumni Association will hold a Christmas party on Dec. 8, according to Mrs. Emily Powell Sumrall, president of the group.

Persons interested in attending are urged to call the alumni secretary, Vickie Hackett, or Mrs. Sumrall for additional information.

Mrs. Joanne Robinson and Mrs. Judy McCarthy are sharing responsibility for the upcoming Boutique and Cookie-Candy Sale at Our Lady of Mercy Catholic Church.

The annual holiday event, sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women, will take place on Dec. 9-10, following each Mass.

Mrs. Robinson is in charge of the boutique which will feature gift items and holiday decorations, and Mrs. McCarthy is chairing the sale of cookies and candies.

Local high schoolers helped brighten the Thanksgiving weekend for Serramonte junior, Russell Gil, who is spending five weeks in Mary's Help Hospital following an accident the day after Thanksgiving.

The teens have been keeping Gil's spirits up with regular visits.

Local friends were saddened by the news of the death of Westlake's Gwan Eng Lie's father this past week in Indonesia.

Memorial services were held Sunday in San Francisco's Lakeside Church.

Le Pacini

(Note: It's about that time of year for a little Hot Stove League activity, so herewith, a two-part series about Marino Pieretti's Hall of Famers.)

Marino "Chick" Pieretti, perusing a recent Sporting News, noted that California Angel coach Jimmy Reese claimed what he felt was a record in that during his mere 2½ years in the big leagues, he had roomed with three Hall of Famers — Babe Ruth, Frankie Frisch and Lefty Gomez. Until that moment, Pieretti had always thought that his greatest claim to baseball immortality would be that he gave up big league hit No. 2,000 to Joe DiMaggio, Marino's old North Beach paisan.

"Well," Pieretti said, "it took me six years to do it, but I beat Jimmy on the trivia, because I roomed with four Hall of Fame members, and if just being a house guest counts, make that five!"

The diminutive right-hander, who pitched for Washington, the White Sox and the Cleveland Indians from 1945-50, roomed with Bob Feller, Early Wynn, Bob Lemon and Luke Appling, and, "was Robin Roberts' house guest one night after a fishing party."

Appling was Pieretti's first and possibly favorite Hall of Fame roomie, even though the association lasted only for about a week in 1948, after which Pieretti had to ask White Sox manager Ted Lyons to "please remove me from the duties of sleeping with Luke, because I can't get any rest."

It wasn't Luke personally who bothered Pieretti, but Appling's constant phone calls and visitors.

"There were 'groupies' in those days, too," recalls Pieretti with a chuckle. "All young ladies were infatuated with big league players, especially great ones, and they wanted to be seen with them. And Luke had been in the majors for almost 20 years and had accumulated many fans.

"It wasn't just the ladies who were attracted to Luke. He was so popular, he was admired by EVERYBODY. He was such a nice guy, jovial, friendly, and so generous — nobody ever paid when they were with him. There were newspaper reporters and guys who wanted radio interviews, and there were more autograph hounds than there are now — of all ages. And to make things worse for me, Luke was so jittery he couldn't sit still, always had to be on the go, and was seldom in the room. So not only was the ringing of the phone bothering me, but I also had to answer it, and answer the knocks on the door. I felt like a social secretary. Luke would come in and say, 'Any messages?' and I'd have to read a list off to him."

Pieretti also remembers Appling as one of the best athletes he's ever seen.

"Luke was so strong. He'd be getting rubbed down and he'd suddenly lift the trainer right off the floor, just with his arms. And he did everything so naturally. He'd go to hit a bucket of balls and without warming up start hitting those driving range rocks 300 yards.

"And smart. He couldn't run well, but Luke could steal when you needed it. At one point he had 15 delayed steals without being thrown out.

"People always thought of Luke as a singles and doubles hitter, but every once in a while he'd say, 'I'm gonna rip one,' and he'd turn around and pull a pitch, just cream it right out of the park.

"Of course, Luke was an expert at spoiling pitches he didn't want to hit, just fouling them off until he got his pitch. I think he still holds the unofficial record of 17 fouls in one at bat. I saw him foul off 14-15, more than once.

"One day we were playing Detroit in Comisky Park, and he had fouled 12 balls. There were three guys sitting in the upper deck to the right of home plate, and two of the guys had caught Luke's fouls. Now the third guy leans over and shouts, 'Hey, how about me, Luke. Don't I get one?' I swear, about two or three pitches later Luke fouled one to the third guy.

"When he did things like that, they weren't accidents or coincidences. He'd say he was going to hit one down the right field foul line in a certain situation. It would come up and he'd get a pitch two feet inside and hit it inside-out down the right field foul line."

Pieretti roomed with Early Wynn, off and on, for three years while with Washington and Cleveland.

"Early was a terrific roommate. He loved life, he loved competition, and he was hard as nails. As tough, as fearless as everything you've ever heard about him. That thing about him knocking down his grandmother if she batted against him, I think maybe you could take that literally.

"And he was so strong. One night I was at a bar with Early and his wife, and when Early went to the men's room, some big guy with two big friends tried to move in on Early's wife. She told him he had better get lost, because her husband would be back in a minute and there would be trouble. The guy just sloughed that off and kept it up with her. Early came back and the guy ignored him. Wynn told him to take a walk, and now the guy's two big friends are in on it. Early picked up one of those big, heavy bar stools and began swinging it with one hand, like it was a baseball bat, and just wiped those guys out. And then he sat down and finished his drink, didn't even look at those guys, like nothing happened."

(Next week: Bob Feller, Bob Lemon and Robin Roberts.)

El Camino Wins Volleyball Title

By SIMI LEE

El Camino High's volleyball team won the North Peninsula volleyball title and earned a ticket to next week's Region I playoffs when they overcame feisty Westmoor in a playoff final Wednesday night at Skyline College.

The Colts, the NPL round-robin champions, rolled to a quick and easy 13-2 lead in the first game.

Michele Carlson and Jackie Determan were spiking well and helping EC to control the net area.

Then, Ram setter Diane Bugler served 12 straight points to overtake the collapsing Colts.

Westmoor's spikers, Sue Koo and Jackie Del Mastro, with assists by setters Bugler and Dawn Smith, took advantage of a sudden collapse in the Colt backcourt. Deep Ram spiking, plus El Camino serving and passing errors led to the come-from-behind first game win.

Then came a second game win, and just like that it was a 15-13, 15-12 match for Westmoor.

Just as they had in the other two games, El Camino jumped to a quick 7-3 lead. But while everyone waited for El Camino to wilt again before scrambling Westmoor, the Colts finally got aggressive behind Carlson, Determan and Sherri Segalas and instead swept to a 15-13 win.

Six-foot Jackie Determan made a series of dazzling left and righthanded spikes and soft hits. Determan threw Westmoor off its game with her net blocking, which forced the Rams to punch their hits higher — and consequently, often out of the court.

In the last game when El Camino's backcourt braced by the omnipresent Determan and Dawn Prince, cured their bumping and passing woes, the Colts broke an 8-8 tie by running off seven straight points for a 15-8 win.

"Even when we lost those first two games, I still thought we would take it," said El Camino coach Rhonda Walker. "Their attitude was good. I don't know why they stopped playing in the second game, but we made some adjustments in between matches and they regained some of their aggressiveness."

NEW COACH

Serramonte High School physical education instructor and head women's basketball coach Pamela Reagan has been named head women's basketball coach of Skyline College in San Bruno. This will be her first year of coaching at the college level.

Skyline Quint In Title Game

OROVILLE — After its "usual" sluggish opening-game victory here Friday night, Skyline College faces a revenge-minded host Butte basketball tonight for the championship of the Butte Classic.

Defending tourney champ Skyline defeated College of the Siskiyous, 56-49, and Butte romped over Napa in Friday's semis.

"We didn't look sharp," said Trojan coach Lyle Newcomer. "We looked like we traveled in a van all day — as we did. This is my fifth opening game (as Skyline coach) and we haven't played a good opener yet."

With Skyline veteran front-liners Brad Levesque and Reggie Love getting in foul trouble early, newcomer Dave Lopp (6-6) paced the Trojans with 12 points, 10 in the first half as Skyline held a 33-24 advantage. He hit on six of 10 from the field and had five rebounds.

Returning back-up center James Reed "filled in very well too," according to Newcomer. Reed hit on three of four field goal attempts, grabbed eight rebounds and added a pair of assists.

Butte has four starters back from last year's team, which lost the tourney title to Skyline but went on to repeat as Golden Valley Conference champions.

CCS Football Playoff

Serramonte Nods, 29-6

A favorite psyching ploy of Serramonte High's football team is to gather near midfield at the end of pre-game warmups, face the other team and yell and point and generally carry on.

The Regents tried that before Friday night's Central Coast Section Region I playoff game against St. Francis at Burlingame Field.

It was like spitting in the wind.

The defense that earned Serramonte its first-ever North Peninsula League championship played very well much of the time, but St. Frsncis really held most of the cards most of the time, and won 29-6.

West Catholic Athletic League champion St. Francis will advance to meet Hillsdale, winner of the other first-round playoff game, next Friday night, probably at Burlingame. The two teams were Region I finalists last year, too; St. Francis won that one 14-0.

The current St. Francis team is different from last year's CCS championship squad, but there are some similarities — good personnel, good coaching, crisp efficiency and fine defense.

Serramonte was the first team to score a touchdown on St. Francis in the Lancers' last five games.

But aside from that one scoring play — a 59-yard screen pass from Ron Cranshaw to Anthony Hale — the Regents never penetrated further than the Lancer 44. And that's the name of that tune.

Serramonte couldn't run. There's no shame in that, because few other teams have been able to run on St. Francis.

But Serramonte also had trouble passing deep into the Lancer zone, and Cranshaw never had much time to throw.

Defensively, the Regents had many fine moments. St. Francis didn't get a first down in the first quarter.

But big plays on both sides of the line hurt Serramonte badly. And the Regents, a small team, were pretty well outmanned.

"We knew what they were going to do," said Serramonte linebacker Mike Kuchac, a standout in NPL play. "And they didn't look that big. But they really fire out."

Serramonte got in a hole early in the first quarter when St. Francis' Doug Derner picked off a Regent pass and returned it 32 yards to score.

St. Francis didn't dent the Regent front for quite a while. But early in the second quarter, Lancer quarterback John Giagiari lofted a 60-yard TD pass to Karl Broussard making it 12-0.

Cranshaw's TD pass (with some fine running by Hale) came two plays later.

St. Francis seemed to be driving for a third score, but lost the ball on a fumble at the Serramonte six-yard line; Eric Jones recovered.

Just before halftime, after forcing a short punt, St. Francis got good field position at the Regent 30, and settled for a 33-yard Craig Checklenis field goal to make it 15-6 at intermission.

Serramonte had a decent drive going early in the third quarter, but fumbled the ball away at the Lancer 46. Giagiari, who had lots of time to throw most of the evening, struck quickly with a 44-yard bomb to Kyle Hagen, putting the ball at the Regent 10. Four plays and a penalty later, Giagiari snuck over from the one.

Later, in the fourth quarter, St. Francis picked up another turnover (an interception by Steve Montalvo) and again followed it up with a hard strike. St. Francis blew the Regents off the line, and junior back Tom Neylan rolled 53 yards for the final touchdown.

Neylan had his best game of the season, picking up 129 yards in 16 carries. Giagiari, operating under near-perfect conditions, completed seven of 13 passes for 146 yards. Overall, St. Francis outgained Serramonte, 354-164.

Cranshaw led the Regents with 34 yards rushing and 102 passing.

St. Francis is now 10-1. Serramonte, the County's Cinderella team this year, finished at 5-5-1. The result of Friday night's game surprised no one.

"Still, we thought we had a chance," said Kuchach.

Much of the season had been a high for the Regents, though, and they weren't complaining about the final loss.

"We're a championship team," said Cranshaw. "We played with dignity, and we came off the field with dignity."

"It's been a good season," said Kuchac, "ever since we beat Jefferson and realized we could beat the good teams in the NPL."

St. Francis must now turn its thoughts to Hillsdale, a team it dominated defensively last year.

"Hillsdale is impressive," said Lancer Coach Ron Calcagno. "They play very good defense. I guess they're not a high-scoring team (Calcagno has seen that in the Mid-Peninsula League season statistics), but they certainly get the job done. They didn't lose any games in their league, did they?"

The Lancers could hardly have been faulted for their play — they did so many things so well. But, as in last year's opening-round win over Half Moon Bay, they seemed brisk rather than intense.

Calcagno didn't necessarily agree. But, he said, "this is our 11th game of the season. How many times can you tell a team, 'This is the big one?'".

Friday night's game WASN'T the big one. Only time will tell when that will come.

The Regent

By GENNY HOM
Commissioner
of Outside Publicity

Our 1978 Homecoming is one we shall never forget. Serramonte's great varsity football team put the Westmoor Rams out to pasture, beating them 24-20. After the game, there was much excitement and bedlam as Serramonte found out we were No. 1 in the NPL. The student body is very proud of our football team and the coaches.

Serramonte's super spirit continued into the night as more than 300 persons danced to the sounds of "New Genesis."

Later the Homecoming court was announced by Leslie McNeil, commissioner of elections. Many students were nominated this year and Leslie did a great job running the elections.

The Homecoming dance was a great finish for a successful spirit week. During spirit week, an activity was planned for each day.

In addition to a little kids' day, we had a class I.D. day. Each of the four classes wore different clothes. The freshmen wore blue and 1982 armbands. The sophomore class wore green. Like the unknown comic on the Gong Show, the junior class walked around campus with bags over their heads. The senior class dressed in their best clothes.

The homecoming rally was the best rally the school has had this year. The juniors and freshmen performed skits and the cheerleaders and pep girls did a routine. The cheerleaders also organized a bean bag toss competition among the classes. Two volunteers from each class had to throw the bean bags into a container. The class of 1980 won 15 spirit points for having the most bean bags in the container.

Serramonte also had a poster competition. The four classes put up posters which were judged by the administration. The freshman class won $25 and spirit points for having the best poster.

Next week Serramonte's music department will present its winter concert and potluck dinner. This event is sponsored by MICE (Music — It Concerns Everyone), Serramonte High School's music boosters. The dinner will start at 6 p.m. and will cost $2.50 per person. The concert will cost $1 and will begin at 8 p.m. The concert is free to all MICE members.

All parents of music students should have received a letter advising them on what to bring to the dinner. If you haven't received this letter, contact Mrs. Joan Dennison. The music students have been working very hard for this concert; please come and enjoy their fine music. All funds received will benefit the music students.

Serramonte High School's chapter of the California Junior Statesmen attended a conference at the Hyatt Regency in San Francisco on Nov. 18-19. The students attended debates on controversial issues, seminars and workshops.

This convention was a rewarding experience for Rosie Axiak, Maria Bautista, Gloria Bombon, Kevin Covington, Kim Daly, Curtis Dennison, Genny Hom, Gregory Keh, Keith Lindstrom, Mike Madrieres, Franklin Mathias, Robin Moeller, Glenn Navor, Mary Pult, Richie Pult, Robin Raeta, Mike Rubin, Robert Smith, Maria Veloso, Linda Wenzelburger and Diane Wight.

Students have been granted a one-week extension for open campus. The school board has given this extension so that the principals and interested community members can try to solve some of the problems brought about by open campus.

ELECTRICIAN RETURNS

Navy Interior Communications Electrician 3.C. William A. Blatt, whose wife, Elizabeth, is the daughter of Mary and Daniel Laird of 209 Oliver St., Daly City, recently returned from an extended deployment in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the ammunition ship USS Kilauea, homeported in Concord, Calif. While deployed, his ship operated as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

Those Suffering From Bureausis

Bookshelf

"There are people to whom bureaucracy is a curse. They see no good in it whatsoever but view the demands of modern organization as red tape. This kind of behavior is external of the organization, and is not simply a reaction to bureaupathology. Its source will be found within the critic himself, not within the organization. It is, in fact, a kind of social disease which we propose to call bureausis."

Victor Thompson

There are people who think it is strange to find government employees who possess the virtues they admire in human beings. They were heard last week praising Congressman Leo J. Ryan for his modesty and his honesty as though they were surprised to find that he possessed these admirable qualities. Surely such folks suffer from bureausis in a manner that is most sad.

Such bureausis leads its victims to inflect bruises upon many public employees who do not deserve them. This became most obvious in recent campaigns, especially during the June primary, when thousands of public employees were castigated with such words as bureaucrat, servant and public slave. "Those birds are going to learn that it is a crime to feed at the public trough," said my hardware man with glee echoing the sentiments of many who suffer from bureausis.

People who hurl such terms and otherwise mistreat government workers rob public servants of their dignity and give them a complex that Eugene Dvorin and Robert Simmons call abysmal self perception.

Dvorin and Simmons are professors who have spent their careers observing public service in America. Their book "From Amoral to Humane Bureaucracy" (Canfield Press, 1972) is a provocative volume that should bewidely read.

Of special interest is chapter three, entitled "The Bureaucrat: Pariah, Technician, or Savior." Here the authors write that the bureauracy is the repository of a unique and special public trust even while the bureaucrat is seen as corruptible. They urge voters to recognize that government workers fill the roles that the public creates for them. If the public thinks its employees are pariahs (low-cast) that is what many will become. On the other hand if they are worshipped as public saviors that is what they will become. Of course, the development of a public service filled with either pariahs or saviors is not good for America.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Whether you're a youngster or just young at heart, everyone loves pizza. Perhaps it's because of the unlimited variety of ingredient combinations that blend so well for this irresistible family favorite.

Pizza success borders on the crust . . . and Corny Pizza Pie has just the crust to prove your talents. Lean ground beef, bread crumbs, tomato sauce and spices form the crust for Corny Pizza Pie. It's topped with additional tomato sauce, whole kernel corn, sliced mushrooms and Mozzarella cheese, then baked for 20 minutes.

You can add to or substitute toppings of black or green olive slices, green or red pepper strips or onion slices. They're all flavorful complements to golden corn and mushrooms.

CORNY PIZZA PIE

1 pound lean ground beef
½ cup dry bread crumbs
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon salt
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
1 7-oz. can vacuum packed golden whole kernel corn, drained
1 2½-oz. jar sliced mushrooms, drained
½ cup shredded Mozzarella cheese

Combine the pound ground beef, half cup bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon each oregano and salt and one-half cup of vye tomato sauce. Spread on bottom and sides of a 10-inch pie pan. Top with the remaining tomato sauce. Spread the seven ounces drained corn and two and one-half ounces mushrooms over top. Sprinkle the half cup shredded Mozzarella cheese over all. Bake in preheated 425-degree oven for 20 minutes. Serves 4.

Pick Up By Neck

By Dr. DAVID R. BARNETT

Question: Is there any special way to pick up a guinea pig? Recently our pet Peruvian long-hair tries to bite me hard if I pick her up in any way. I don't like to grab her by the scruff of the neck because I'm afraid that might hurt her. Maybe she just goes through periods when she is irritable. Would you comment?

H. H.

Answer: Usually I pick up a guinea pig by grasping him by the entire neck with one hand and supporting the body with the other. In this way he cannot turn and bite me and I can examine him easily. Perhaps your guinea pig is ill or has been injured and this is causing him to be irritable. Have him examined by a veterinarian to determine if there is a health problem that is making him grouchy.

Question: I am interested in animals and need your advice. What would be my chances of finding employment working with animals after graduating from a two-year program as an animal technician? I do not wish to become a veterinarian. My experiences range from dog-sitting, veterinarian assistant and managing an animal adoption center. I am 28 years old. Any suggestions you might have will be helpful.

R. L.

Answer: Contact as many veterinarians and research institutes (medical schools and drug companies) as you can and indicate a willingness to work. A short well written letter is the best. Long lists of references are not necessary. You must convince a prospective employer that you can help to make his business run more profitably. It is my opinion that there are jobs available now for someone with your training and genuine interest in animals.

Question: My two daughters want a pet — either a dog or a cat. During the day we work and my daughters go to school. Would it be better to leave a cat or a dog alone during the day?

J. P.

Answer: Usually a cat makes a better pet than a dog under these circumstances. Cats are more content to be left alone for several hours at a time and are less likely to be destructive to your house and furniture.

Lights Planned For Field

The softball field at Westlake Park, which had been partially displaced during construction of the Sanitation Plant Improvement Project, will be restored at the expense of the Sanitation Plant contractor.

In the process of being restored, the new field will include an improved storm drainage from the field.

In addition, the city of Daly City has just been granted $50,000 from the State Department of Parks and Recreation to have night lights installed.

Also, bleacher seats will be installed to accomodate the anticipated spectators that enjoy watching softball games.

It is estimated that by mid-1979, lights and bleacher seats should be installed for use by the general public.

Pacifica Planners OK Massage Studio

In spite of nearby residents' objections, the Pacifica Planning Commission gave the go-ahead last week for a health and massage studio to be built in Sharp Park.

Neighbors complained that the studio could introduce prostitution to Pacifica and would draw "undesireables" into the area.

Harjendar Chima responded that his studio would be "family oriented" and that a massage would be just one of the features offered at his mini-gym.

Planning commissioners, on a 3-2 vote, agreed that the studio should be allowed to operate before the city condemns it.

Before Chima is allowed to put in the studio at 2500-B Francisco Blvd., the police department must review his application.

If the police department does not approve it, the studio cannot be allowed.

Planning commissioners also noted that the use permit was being issued for only one year and that it would be subject to review at that time.

Resident John Edmunds said that although "I have nothing against massage parlors," he thought a better location for the studio would be in a shopping center.

Chima said he looked into putting his studio in a shopping center, but found that, for the money, the upper floor of the Francisco Boulevard building was his best prospect.

"It's not going to be a big volume type of business," he said, adding that no more than six customers could be accommodated in the massage rooms and exercise area at any one time.

He said the location is close to the freeway and golf course and he is hoping that golfers will drop their families off for a massage and some exercise while they are out on the Sharp Park Golf Course.

Although he had asked that the studio be allowed to remain open until midnight, the commission trimmed that back to 10 p.m.

Commissioner Ruth Stege said she was surprised that there were not more than a handful of people there to protest the studio's permit.

"I don't know where they are tonight," she said, adding that this issue had residents more upset than any other item she has dealt with while on the Planning Commission.

Because some concerned citizens had come in late, the public hearing was re-opened and they were allowed to make their comments on the record.

Betty Panesi, who lives around the corner from the proposed site, said she did not know if the massage studio would be a good or bad influence, but she did not want to wait to find out.

"I don't want all kinds of customers walking on my block," she said.

Mrs. Panesi noted that although the police department could investigate the applicant's background, there was no way to investigate the potential customers.

Mary Florey, who owns Florey's Bookstore on Francisco Boulevard, also protested the application.

"You will not get just the straight and narrow guy," she said, noting that the studio could encourage prostitution in the area.

Local developer Al King defended the project, saying that he, like others, gets stiff once in awhile and would like access to a massage studio.

But, he added, supposedly "all of a sudden we've got a bunch of whorehouses."

"I don't think we should assume this business is illegal until we find out that it is," King said.

It has been his service with the Foreign Affairs Committee, particularly, which has led to charges that he spends more time traveling than

Nutrition Hunger Key

By ARVILLE FINACOM

It is sometimes funny how a column can get away from me. In last week's Perspective I intended to mention world hunger, but I couldn't seem to get a handle on the topic. It might have been because "hunger" strikes a negative note and Perspective deals with positives.

There are positives about world hunger, though. Its causes and its forms are being discussed widely and openly and society seems to be learning it can be both challenged effectively and curbed.

For years we dealt with hunger sporadically. Cash gifts to the Salvation Army, the World Council of Churches, to UNICEF and other social agencies bought surplus commodities for distribution. Gifts in kind supplied local hot meal programs and gift baskets.

At best, these programs were band aid in approach, valuable in times of disaster and extreme need, but creating little or no permanent link between donor and receiver and no real understanding by anyone of the insidious nature of the condition itself.

Today, hunger, linked with the catchword "nutrition," is being confronted with understanding. A UNICEF pamphlet, "Worldwide Nutrition," defines it in terms of diet deficiency and ignorance, listing 10 causes creating it. One of these is unchecked population growth among peoples used to seeing an average of six out of every 10 children die before reaching maturity.

Several reasons for widespread hunger relate directly to purchasing power and this cost/cash relationship is not limited to developing nations. It is a much publicized cause for malnutrition among our own country's elderly who often live inadequately on fixed incomes as well as among the children especially of modern day immigrants and the native poor who crowd our cities, spill over into older suburbs and exist in rural pockets across the nation.

Other causes identified by UNICEF deal directly with the disparity between the "haves" and "have-nots" for the world. This is no place for a philosophical discussion of worldwide land reform, resources management nor government subsidy about which individuals can do little. But it is a place to mention two inequalities about which each of us can do something.

Consider: in the United States it is estimated two million tons of fertilizer are used annually on lawns, cemeteries and golf courses. This same amount, used elsewhere in the world on food crops, could increase their yield dramatically.

Some may ask, "Why not do both?" but both, today, are impossible, given the rapid depletion of the world's acceptable fertilizers, the cost of oil used to produce the petroleum-based artificial ones, and the infant state and prohibitive cost of the technology necessary to develop alternative ones.

Second: red meat consumption, long a sign of affluence in the western world, used to be reserved for the general population on "feast days" only. Even a generation ago, meat-every-day-for-everyone was not common. Today, it is a goal rapidly being reached by many, but it is also a goal which not only contributes to hunger elsewhere in the world but may be detrimental nutritionally to those who reach it.

Most animals raised for slaughter in the United States are grain fed for convenience and quick fattening. UNICEF estimates that a reduction of only 10 per cent in demand for grain fattened animals would free some 12 million tons of grain annually to be used directly as a primary source of protein among the malnourished and starving in the world.

Perhaps the most positive factor in curbing both hidden and obvious world hunger is an understanding of better nutrition. UNICEF materials are valuable resources. Write to U.S. Committee for UNICEF, 331 East 38th St., New York, NY 10016, for information.

Materials published by the American Heart Association (local office 1846 El Camino Real, Burlingame, 94010 — phone 692-0981) incorporate dietary recommendations for decreased consumption of foods high in saturated fats, refined sugar and salt, all practices leading not only to heart disease but also to the "hidden hunger" of the poorly nourished.

Churches, too, offer resource material. Currently 8 cents of every dollar donated to the World Hunger Appeal of the American Lutheran Church (check the phone book for local affiliate congregations) is spent to "mobilize and educate the non-hungry," especially in "modification of lifestyle" towards "simpler patterns of consumption."

As the increasing awareness of hunger and its relationship to nutrition becomes evident, new emphasis is placed on developing and teaching the hungry of the world simple and relatively inexpensive methods of satisfying hunger in nutritionally rich ways.

Peace Corps volunteers entering a new area find among their primary tasks a survey of possible foodstuffs in the region and a listing of what could be imported inexpensively, become established quickly and yield highly.

Nutritional analysis of common, even nuisance plants, often leads to their introduction into local diets. For example, in the Philippines, the malunggay tree grew in almost every backyard, yet few cooked the vitamin rich, life-giving leaves until educated.

And in Bangladesh, a land rich in water, tilapia nilptica, a highly nutritious, prolific, carp-like fish imported from Thailand, flourish in 700 thousand fish ponds across the land providing three or four harvests a year.

Curbing world hunger directly with money gifts seems the most appropriate local method although gifts in kind are accepted by such organizations as Community Contact mentioned in the Nov. 8 Perspective. Taking dollars to donate from one's weekly food budget personalizes the experience. Some families have meatless meals or soup dinners once a week contributing the amount that might have been spent on meat. Others eliminate highly processed, prepared snack foods from their diet, substitute fresh fruit or vegetables and donate the difference in cost. Still others look carefully at their eating practices and decide to reserve "eating out" for special occasions.

When one considers that even a $2 donation to a reputable agency can mean 20 pounds of beans or rice, enough to furnish a meal for 100 children, the value of such sacrificial giving becomes evident. Besides, better human health can result, not only in a personal sense but for the world as well.

Rumble Seat Revival

The automobile rumble seat — guaranteed to catch the sun, wind, insects and even raindrops when they fall — is back. It's the latest thing in cars from — where else? — the West Coast.

So far only three Cadillac dealers in the Los Angeles area — one in Hollywood, another in the San Fernando Valley and a third in Long Beach — are offering the option, but more are sure to join in.

Providing the newest link to the automotive past (the open-air rumble seat hit the automotive junk heap in the early 1930s) are two friends who have been in business together for 30 years, Don Cerf and Perry Dreibus. Their latest venture: Rumbleseat Corp of America.

Important Note Regarding Prices

The prices shown in the right-hand column on each page of this catalog are for reference only, and no representation is made to the effect that any of these prices is the usual or ordinary price at which a particular item is sold.

Most of the prices shown in the right hand column are manufacturer's suggested retail prices supplied to Consumers Distributing. Where manufacturers do not supply suggested retail prices, Consumers Distributing has applied to its cost mark-up percentages based on trade customs (which commonly vary with respect to various types of items) to arrive at a prices which it considers to be in accordance with customary trade practices. In any event, these prices may vary in different trading areas depending on shipping and other costs and circumstances which might affect such a price. No representation is made to the effect that any of these prices is the usual or ordinary price at which a particular item is sold.

No user of this catalog should assume that a savings will be effected or realized in an amount equal to the difference between the figure in the right-hand column and the Consumers Distributing price. In some cases, other retailers may be selling goods at prices equal to or less than Consumers Distributing price for the purpose of clearing goods which are end-of-line or stale merchandise, or by reason of their ordinary business practices.

•All prices are subject to change without notice due to manufacturers' increases or decreases, changes in federal or state taxation or world fluctuations of the prices of gold, gems and precious metals.
